Summary

Currently an Analyst at Accenture Japan Ltd, I specialize in maintaining and refining Android application, ensuring its stability and seamless functionality for a substantial user base. My expertise encompasses feature enhancement, bug resolution, and systematic testing, with a focus on delivering consistent app improvements.

As a data science enthusiast, I hold the title of Kaggle Competition Master and I always love participating in data science-related competitions in my free time. This affords me the chance to learn from top talent and address a diverse set of challenges posed by businesses and institutions. Through these experiences, I've honed my skills in applying AI solutions across industries and extracting valuable insights from vast datasets in a wide range of scenarios.
